

Jerry Still on the Job.

Walter Hoban of the 314th Artillery, a Philadelphia organization, is a selected man in the ranks, whose yearly income is larger than that of the major general commanding at Camp Meade. Hoban draws the "Jerry on the Job" comic strips, and coming to camp has not interfered with his work or his contract in the least. He still turns out the strips between drills, and says that, including his army pay of $30 a month, his annual income is $10,360.

Yesterday probably was the last Sun-